The course focuses on geometric computational methods and algorithms in image and shape understanding. We investigate shape reconstruction, color image enhancement and segmentation, edge finding, and efficient computation of symmetry axis, minimal geodesics, and invariant signatures. We learn how to apply tools from mathematical morphology, differential geometry, metric geometry, numerical analysis, and calculus of variations to formulate and solve problems in computer vision, and shape analysis.